

Caradco, Inc. Klamath Falls Holdings To Be Sold at Auction

An auction sale involving nearly a half-million dollars' worth of real estate, cut lumber and planing mill and moulding machinery is scheduled for Klamath Falls Tuesday, Oct. 25, according to an announcement by Milton J. Wershow Co., Portland and Los Angeles auctioneers who will conduct the sale.

Involved in the piece-meal sell-out is the equipment and real estate of Caradco, Inc., whose board of directors voted recently to close their West Coast operations. Caradco is a nationally known firm with headquarters in the Midwest and several plants throughout the country. The auction will be held on the premises, 4013 Lakeport Blvd.

Southern Pacific Probe Ordered In Rail Service

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The State Public Utilities Commission Tuesday ordered an investigation in Southern Pacific's proposal to discontinue operating the Del Monte between San Francisco and Pacific Grove.

The railroad proposed abandoning the deluxe train serving the Monterey area after the PUC rejected SP's time table which proposed to combine the Del Monte with commuter trains operating between San Francisco and San Jose.

New Abominable Snowman Sighted By B. C. Hunter

NELSON, B. C. (AP) — The Nelson Chamber of Commerce said today that British Columbia's abominable snowman—a hairy, flat-faced creature nine feet tall—"deserves a better name than 'Sasquatch.'"

But it admitted it had no substitute title for the thing that frightened John Bringsli into a state of paralysis—his own words—up on Lemon Creek last month.

"It had very wide shoulders and a flat face with ears flat against the side of its head," said Bringsli. This description left no doubt that the creature was the region's legendary "Sasquatch," handed down to the whites, name and all, from the Indians.

"It was seven to nine feet tall with long legs and short, powerful arms with hair covering its body," continued Bringsli, known as a veteran outdoorsman with good eyesight.

He returned to the area with several armed friends, Bringsli said, and found a footprint measuring 11 or 17 inches in length.

Nevada Cattlemen Share Loss In National Livestock Industry

Each year Nevada cattlemen share in the national livestock industry's $3.5 billion dollar loss from anaplasmosis—a severe anemia which causes high death loss in susceptible cattle.

Anaplasmosis affected cattle become gaunt, weak, depressed, and go off feed. Badly affected cattle die in a short time because of the destruction of red blood cells. Recovered cattle become carriers, regardless of age. Relapses can occur, but usually the animal is immune to future attacks.

Dr. Kenneth L. Kutler, head of the department of veterinary science at the Max C. Fleischmann College of Agriculture of the University of Nevada, says some progress in anaplasmosis control has been made through development of a vaccine which is encouraging because it protects animals from severe illness. More protection than this is needed, however, and University of Nevada research is underway at Reno, at a field station, and with cooperating Nevada ranchers. In addition, Nevada research is coordinated with work of other universities and the USDA. A cure for anaplasmosis depends upon studying all cases of incu-

mal. The disease is not contagious; rather it is spread by blood sucking insects which carry the disease from an affected animal to one that is unaffected.
